

Dr. Marcie Hill

WSSC Child Development Program Director and Instructor

Thank for your interest in Child Development. For more than 20 years, I have taught a variety of ages from birth to adults in different settings and have served as a reading coach in an elementary school and as adjunct professor. I earned my Ph.D. in Early Childhood Education from the University of Alabama at Birmingham and am a National Board Certified Teacher.

I, too, began my education in a community college setting and have diligently worked through school over the years while being a mother, wife, and teacher. I would love to help you become successful in your education and can provide you with information about our Child Development Program. Please call me or email me for more information. I would love to speak with you.
